Letter from DCP Director Daniel Garodnick

To my fellow New Yorkers:

Every year, each of New York City's 59 community boards advocate for the needs of its residents and stakeholders by preparing a Statement of Community District (CD) Needs and Community Board Budget Requests. Through this process, community boards share the top issues impacting their neighborhoods and propose capital and expense requests to address those identified needs. I'd like to thank the volunteer members of our community boards and the District Managers who work so hard in leading this essential process and in preparing these reports.

The annual CD Needs process is the product of months of collaboration and public input and is a valuable tool for New Yorkers to participate in neighborhood planning. At the broadest levels, CD Needs offers a critical window into the challenges faced by New Yorkers, and how those challenges may differ across neighborhoods. At a granular level, it provides a forum through which community leaders specify those needs and make recommendations for spending -- which in turn are used by City agencies, elected officials, advocacy groups, and non-profit service providers, among others, to better understand and meet the individual needs of each community board.

Through this year's submissions, we heard the stories of our communities' biggest challenges, such as the human impacts of our housing crisis. In that vein, community boards again selected affordable housing as the most pressing issue citywide, followed by crime and public safety, and parks and open space. Through our online form, community boards generated more than 3,700 budget requests, and for each, one of 28 City agencies responded to indicate whether the request could be accommodated within the upcoming annual budget. This year, in line with our commitment to increasing transparency across the CD Needs process, we are publishing agency responses to these requests in the final section of these reports.

DCP deeply values our partnership with community boards. We remain committed to supporting them by increasing participation in, and improving the transparency of, the CD Needs process. We have received valuable feedback from our community board partners, and we are excited to work with them to continue improving our online submission form, to connect boards with agencies to advance budget request proposals, and to open the form earlier in the calendar year to allow more time for public input and preparation. We look forward to advancing this work with both community boards and City agencies to ensure this is a valuable and productive way to improve our City's neighborhoods and to respond to local community needs.

Sincerely,

INTRODUCTION

The annual Statements of Community District Needs (CD Needs Statements) and Community Board Budget Requests (Budget Requests) are Charter mandates that form an integral part of the City's budget process. Together, they are intended to support communities in their ongoing consultations with city agencies, elected officials and other key stakeholders and influence more informed decision making on a broad range of local planning and budget priorities. This report also provides a valuable public resource for neighborhood planning and research purposes, and may be used by a variety of audiences seeking information about New York City's diverse communities.

This report is broadly structured as follows:

1. Overarching Community District Needs

Sections 1 – 4 provide an overview of the community district and the top three pressing issues affecting this district overall as identified by the community board. Any narrative provided by the board supporting their selection of their top three pressing issues is included.

2. Policy Area-Specific District Needs

Section 5 is organized by seven distinct policy areas aligned with the service and program areas of city agencies. For each policy area, community boards selected the most important issue for their districts and could provide a supporting narrative. The policy area section also includes any agency-specific needs and a list of relevant budget requests submitted by the community board. If the community board submitted additional information outside of a specific policy area, it may be found in Section 6.

3. Community Board Budget Requests

The final section includes the two types of budget requests submitted to the City for the FY24 budget cycle; one list for capital and another for expense budget requests. For each budget request, community boards were able to provide a priority number, explanation, location, and supporters. OMB remains the definitive source on budget requests submitted to city agencies.

Statement on Data Accuracy

Under Title 13 of the U.S. Code, the Census Bureau is legally bound to protect the privacy of individuals participating in the decennial census. To adhere to the law and to avoid the disclosure of information about individual respondents, the Census Bureau has historically applied a host of techniques, such as top- and bottom-coding, imputation, table- and cell-suppression, and data swapping. The Census Bureau is employing a new technique with the 2020 Census, referred to as the Disclosure Avoidance System (DAS), based on differential privacy. With this approach, the Census Bureau “infuses noise” systematically across census data and sets a quantified disclosure risk, referred to as the Privacy Loss Budget (PLB).

While the new DAS approach may diminish the risk of disclosure concerns, it comes at a cost to data accuracy. Consequently, 2020 Census data users should be aware that all sub-state counts, except for housing units (which are unaffected by the DAS), may be adjusted to protect the privacy of Census participants and may be subject to reduced accuracy. Because DAS noise infusion is randomized, it is impossible for data users to know the degree to which any individual statistic is altered. However, it is possible to say that in general the relative size of errors decreases as counts increase. Consequently, data users should have greater confidence in the accuracy of the data as counts get larger. Further, an evaluation of a Privacy-Protected Microdata File (PPMF), treated with a Disclosure Avoidance System like the one applied to 2020 redistricting data, showed that counts of 300 or more rarely have sizable errors (error beyond +/- 10% of the count). Therefore, while data users need to be cognizant of data accuracy limitations, they should have confidence in conclusions based on sizable counts, which are relatively unaffected by the Census Bureau’s latest disclosure avoidance method.

3. OVERVIEW OF COMMUNITY DISTRICT

Brooklyn's Community Board 3 is home to the neighborhood of Bedford-Stuyvesant. The community district is in the northern section of central Brooklyn and bounded by Flushing Avenue and Broadway on the north, Saratoga Avenue on the east, Atlantic Avenue on the south, and Classon Avenue on the west. It borders community boards 1, 2, 4, 8, and 16. A recent piece in Untapped New York identified Bedford-Stuyvesant as a neighborhood with "the largest collection of untouched and intact Victorian buildings in the U.S., with hundreds of historic brownstones filling the neighborhood's streets." For nearly 100 years, it "has been a cultural center for the African American community in New York (City)." Today's Bedford-Stuyvesant is an outgrowth the free Black community of Weeksville established three decades before the end of the Civil War. The Bedford and Stuyvesant Heights sections were developed with many row houses for families in the second half of the nineteenth century. By the 1930s, the combined neighborhood known as Bedford-Stuyvesant had become the city's second largest Black community. During the mid-century, as white immigrant families left central Brooklyn for eastern Queens and Long Island, many Blacks migrating from the American South and others emigrating from the Caribbean found community in the neighborhood. Despite redlining, disinvestment, poverty, and other types of discrimination faced by residents, Bedford-Stuyvesant quickly became a center for Black business, cultural expression and production, homeownership, innovation, activism, and political power. According to the most recent State of the City report published by NYU's Furman Center, in the year 2000 Bedford-Stuyvesant had a population just over 121,000 residents, three-quarters of whom were Black. The 2020 Census shows that the neighborhood's population had grown by 44.5% to 174,960 since 2000 but the Black share of the population had fallen to 43.8%. The decline represents a net loss of 14,000 Black residents while the overall population, grew by nearly 54,000. The demographic shift is the result of dramatic gentrification. A 2018 report by the New York State Comptroller found that: "Most of the growth has been driven by an influx of new residents, which has changed the neighborhood's composition. "New residents are attracted to the neighborhood's brownstones, relatively low housing costs and close proximity to Manhattan. With a sharp decrease in crime and an increase in restaurants, cafés, bars, retail shops and live entertainment, Bedford-Stuyvesant is becoming a popular place to live and work. "Many of the new residents are immigrants, white, or young, and are likely to have higher incomes than long-term residents. Their arrival has put pressure on housing costs, making it increasingly less affordable for long-term residents, especially seniors, to remain in the neighborhood." The neighborhood's demographic shift has placed in sharp contrast the challenges we face in Bedford-Stuyvesant. The Comptroller's report also revealed stark, and widening, disparities in median household income between new and long-term residents, with new residents' median household income (roughly $60,000) nearly double that of their neighbors. Given the community's shifting demographics this disparity is racialized and contributes to neighborhood tensions. If this trend goes unaddressed, racialized income stratification will become even more entrenched. Three-quarters of residents are renters and over 55% of them are considered rent burdened, devoting more than 30% of their income to rent. About one-third of households dedicate more than half of their incomes to rent. With more than 20,000 NYCHA residents – almost exclusively Black and Latino – across its 15 developments and 8,240 units, Bedford-Stuyvesant has more NYCHA residents than any other community district in Brooklyn. NYC Health Department reports that residents of Bedford-Stuyvesant suffer from chronic health problems at rate significantly above the city's average. The neighborhood ranks in top ten for rates of smoking, diabetes, new HIV diagnoses, obesity, stroke, mental health, alcohol hospitalizations and adult hospitalizations for asthma. In the past year, complications from COVID-19 were a leading cause of death in Bedford-Stuyvesant. Impacts of COVID-19 The impact of the pandemic on Bedford-Stuyvesant has been deep and persistent but the resilience of neighbors has allowed for the community to find its resilience. The community was hard hit with infection and many residents succumbed to the virus. Vaccine and treatment: As the city recovers from the pandemic continued investment in campaigns and programs that encourage vaccination and provide equitable access to treatment are critically important. Vaccination rates will improve over time only with sustained outreach, education, and easy access. Social services: The stressors of the pandemic magnify the problems faced by vulnerable residents. The impacts of scaling back services and programs has negatively affected individual residents, families, and the community at large. Over the next few years robust ramping up of mental health supports, domestic violence prevention, senior services, activities for disconnected youth, cure violence and violence interruption programs, and other services that seek to strengthen the social infrastructure will be needed to combat the losses from the pandemic. Jobs & Business Support: The jobs recovery in Bedford-Stuyvesant has been uneven. Many residents work for small businesses that were hard hit and struggled to get access to state and federal pandemic relief. These structural impediments are barriers to a robust recovery that will generate jobs and help our local small businesses thrive. Open Space: Less than 3% of the land in Bedford-Stuyvesant is open or recreational space, placing it in the bottom 10 citywide and the second lowest in Brooklyn. In a time when social distancing is continues to be paramount limited open space is a unique challenge in Bedford-Stuyvesant. Not only is open space vital for exercise, but it's also important for mental health and it affords residents opportunities to have responsible social gatherings that limit the spread of the virus. Broadband and Wi-Fi: COVID-19 has centered the neighborhood's poor broadband and Wi-Fi infrastructure. Internet traffic from home has dramatically increased in Bedford-Stuyvesant since the start of the pandemic largely due to work-from-home and remote learning. The existing infrastructure remains a failure because of poor and inconsistent connectivity. CONCLUSION Though Bedford-Stuyvesant is acknowledged as a leading incubator for the future without significant investment and programs to address the neighborhood's challenges, many disparities will deepen. They will further marginalize our neighborhood's most vulnerable – poor, Black and Latino, long-term residents, living in public or low-income housing. Community Board 3 is committed to working with elected officials, government agencies, nonprofits, academia, the business community, civic leaders and groups, and others interested in addressing persistent and emergent issues and building a stronger, more resilient Bedford-Stuyvesant.

4. TOP THREE PRESSING ISSUES OVERALL

Brooklyn Community Board 3

The three most pressing issues facing this Community Board are:

Affordable housing

Stable housing that one can afford is a core social determinant of health. Studies show that affordability impacts housing stability for adults and children and helps them address challenges and pursue goals. Household with affordable rents generally have improved outcomes in employment, health, and education. The most recent data shows that 54.9% of renters in Bedford-Stuyvesant are rent burdened, paying more than 30% of the income toward rent. 27.5% are severely rent burdened allocated at least 50% of their income to rent. Rent burdened tenants are the most housing insecure and at high risk of homelessness if they experience job loss. With the median asking rent $2,500 per month for two-bedroom apartment, housing costs are becoming less affordable for both low- and middle-income residents. Most families would need a minimum annual income of $100,000 qualify to rent apartments at the median asking rent. The median rent for renters was $46,600; an affordable rent rate would be $1,165. Bedford-Stuyvesant needs a variety of affordable housing options, including rents from extremely low income through middle income as well as home-ownership opportunities, that will enable individuals and families to stable lives.

Parks and open space

The dearth of open and green space has emerged as a top community concern particularly during this pandemic era. Less than 3% of the land in Bedford-Stuyvesant is open or recreational space, placing it in the bottom 10 citywide and the second lowest in Brooklyn. Yet the neighborhood's population has surged by nearly 20,000 in the past ten years. Resources are strained. Space is limited. As generational demographic shift and increase, residents are using outdoor spaces throughout all seasons and that space does not necessarily equate to being a park or playground. Plazas and squares would be a welcome addition to the community, allowing for safe social congregation or alternative work spaces as more individuals work remotely.

Trash removal & cleanliness

Bedford-Stuyvesant's population has surged more than 14% since 2010 and that influx of new resident has impacted trash removal and street cleanliness. Though, street cleanliness has improved in the past year according to the Mayor's SCORECARD CB3 still lags behind the borough and city wide averages. This is unacceptable and is evidence of a systematic failing that residents have to deal with on a daily basis. Cuts to the Sanitation Department in previously fiscal years have significantly impacted neighborhood cleanliness. The pandemic cessation of the organics program, which has never been expanded to Community Board 3, has not equipped residents with tools and practices that help reduce waste. The district needs a comprehensive approach to trash, waste, and cleanliness including regular collection, effective street sweeping, and enforcement of commercial waste regulations. We also need an investment in education and outreach that promotes diversion practices and waste reduction including a robust organics program.

5. SUMMARY OF COMMUNITY DISTRICT NEEDS AND BUDGET REQUESTS

HEALTH CARE AND HUMAN SERVICES

Brooklyn Community Board 3

Most Important Issue Related to Health Care and Human Services

Services for low-income and vulnerable New Yorkers

Services for low-income and vulnerable residents of Bedford-Stuyvesant were insufficient prior to the pandemic. Whether it is a lower wage essential worker, families living in shelter, those living in crowded homes, the unemployed and underemployed, and those that with chronic illness, the pandemic -- and its impacts like inflation - has been most destabilizing for them and requires a surge in services (like food programs and other supports) that help them maintain sustenance.

YOUTH, EDUCATION AND CHILD WELFARE

Brooklyn Community Board 3

Most Important Issue Related to Youth, Education and Child Welfare

Youth workforce development and summer youth employment

Workforce opportunities for youth is critically needed in Bedford-Stuyvesant. While SYEP offers young people to chance to earn an income as they explore work and career opportunities, year-round opportunities would strengthen engagement with young people. Studies show that meaningfully engage youth with work increases their civic engagement and introduces them to new fields while decreasing the likelihood a young person to participate in petty crime. Work fosters self-confidence, builds skills, and provides necessary economic support for families.

Community District Needs Related to Youth, Education and Child Welfare

Needs for Youth Education

Recent data from first reading and math scores since the start of the pandemic reveal sharp declines for children nationwide. The impact in Bedford-Stuyvesant is more acute because scores in the neighborhood lagged behind national scores prior to the pandemic. Now they are testing even worse.

Investments in individualized and group tutoring in the core subject areas are vital to improving student outcomes.

Most Important Issue Related to Public Safety and Emergency Services

Crime prevention programs

Property crimes, like package theft and car break-ins, as well as violent gun crimes (usually involving gang activities) have increased in the time since the pandemic shutdown. Increased deliveries has seen an upsurge in package theft. A program to get delivery services to improve protocols on delivery will reduce the number of unattended packages on stoops and in doorways. Greater attention to the gun trade and how they move on the black market would help to reduce gun violence. Investment in violence prevention efforts like cure violence will engage those most prone to involvement.

Community District Needs Related to Public Safety and Emergency Services

Needs for Public Safety

Public safety solutions must be robust and comprehensive. We are not safer with more arrests. Safety means using the full toolkit of resources that minimize and eliminate violence.

We need more investment in violence intervention and prevention work, anti-bullying, out-of-school-time programs focused on youth development, wide access to mental health supports, modern and well-maintained recreational facilities. Evidence shows that all of efforts reduce gang activity and increase pathways for community safety and wellness.

7/40	NYPD	Increase resources for youth crime prevention programs	In too many instances young people, from pre-teen to age 25, engage in activities that put that at risk for involvement in the criminal justice system. ## CORE INFRASTRUCTURE, CITY SERVICES AND RESILIENCY

Most Important Issue Related to Core Infrastructure, City Services and Resiliency.

Cleanliness/trash collection

Dumping in vacant lots and buildings, parks, in front of shuttered businesses, and at corner litter baskets is a rising problem throughout the community district. The dumping typically occurs late nights or in the early hours of the morning. It contributes to dirty sidewalks and rubbish around the community. The district's low sanitation cleanliness scores confirm the neighborhood's struggles and highlight a need for more enforcement. Without adequate enforcement covering multiple shifts the problem will persist.

Needs for Sanitation Services

Illegal dumping is a major community concern. From parks to MTA stations and bus stops, to corner baskets, dumpers abuse the neighborhood and beset their waste on the whole community. We need greater enforcement against violators to change behaviors around dumping in Bedford-Stuyvesant.

Capital Requests Related to Core Infrastructure, City Services and Resiliency

Priority	Agency	Request	Explanation	Location
4/25	DEP	Other capital budget request for DEP	The impacts of the changing climate have created more extreme weather events that easily overwhelm local infrastructure. Targeted flood resilience and storm water management investments are vital for developing a sustainable community that is prepared for the evolving climate crisis. The Board requests the installation of storm water management systems and related infrastructure innovations that mitigate for flooding and localized ponding. These improvements are needed across the community with particular urgency along the Marcy Avenue, Patchen Avenue, and Howard Avenue corridors.
9/25	DSNY	Other capital budget request for DSNY	Each neighborhood must have the capacity to process its own food scraps. This district requests a composting facility. The Board requests the creation of at least one community scale compost site in our CB. Everyday NYC residents generate about 4,000 tons of organics (food scraps) and less than 1% of these are separated. Community Board 3 has two drop off centers operated at Lafayette Garden (1035 Lafayette Ave, Brooklyn, NY 11221) and Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church (228 Decatur St, Brooklyn, NY 11233). We request that the number of FSDOs be doubled within our community board and increase the number of hours and days of operation of existing FSDOs.
CS	DSNY	Provide new or upgrade existing sanitation garages or other sanitation infrastructure	The City has control of the site identified for the garage. The development of the scope of work for the Community Board # 3 Sanitation Garage was approved as an expense request two years ago and should be completed. To improve the environmental health in Community BD # 3, construction of the Sanitation Garage would be a Capital request. Have a co-terminus sanitation site in CB # 3 will reduce gas emissions by shortening the distance sanitation trucks must travel to service this community board.	Nostrand & Park Avenue

2/40	DSNY	Increase enforcement of dirty sidewalk/dirty area/failure to clean area laws	Dumping in vacant lots and buildings, parks, on commercial corridors, and at corner litter baskets is a rising problem throughout the community district. The Board urges the department to hire more enforcement staff that will provide better coverage to the community district.
8/40	DSNY	Provide or expand NYC organics collection program	Our community district lacks robust education and outreach which is critical for the success of municipal composting. The Board requests support for sustainability programs at each school and organics/compost outreach programs and education resources for local residents.

HOUSING, ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AND LAND USE

Brooklyn Community Board 3

Most Important Issue Related to Housing, Economic Development and Land Use

Affordable housing creation

The development of several parcels of land in the southeastern quadrant of Bedford-Stuyvesant, particularly on Fulton Street and Saratoga Avenue is crucial to the district, and we know that there are ongoing discussions regarding those parcels of land with HPD. The development of this land is an opportunity to create senior and affordable housing for the working people of Bedford Stuyvesant who are having a hard time finding affordable housing to raise their families in. A Community facility, startup incubator & general office space, a full service bank and a FRESH market can also be located within the new development. This development is an opportunity to incorporate sustainable features and practices in a mixed-use development project within Bedford Stuyvesant. A study to assess the need and impact of active manufacturing in northern sections of Bedford-Stuyvesant including clear opportunities to either the attraction of industrial manufacturing and/or the protection of areas for manufacturing should be identified. Additionally the study should include an assessment for the attraction of a green industry cluster appropriate and contextual to the Bedford-Stuyvesant neighborhood.

Needs for Economic Development

Community Board 3 encompasses a vast area with diverse needs. In the past decade, Bedford-Stuyvesant has seen a significant uptick in start-up businesses and businesses moving to the area, yet many are forced to shutter due to high commercial rents. We know that a thriving community is one where small business can grow and be sustained. We need particular attention to small business development along our secondary commercial corridors, which serves portions resident without easy access to Fulton Street. In addition, affordable homeownership remains a major obstacle in Bedford Stuyvesant. Studies show that the homeownership is the hallmark of a stable community. Rising home costs is making homeownership less achievable for many residents each day. Many long-time Bedford Stuyvesant residents find themselves unable to afford or maintain their homes, leaving them susceptible to foreclosure or unethical investors. These efforts disrupt the community's cohesion.

TRANSPORTATION

Brooklyn Community Board 3

Most Important Issue Related to Transportation and Mobility

Traffic safety and enforcement (cars, scooters, ebikes, etc.)

Traffic enforcement is lack throughout the community, creating more dangerous roadways for all users - pedestrians, cyclists, bus operators, and other uses. Streets are jammed with traffic and motorists often double park or blocking bus stops and fire hydrants. We need better enforcement improve safety for all.

Community District Needs Related to Transportation and Mobility

Needs for Traffic and Transportation Infrastructure

The Broadway corridor is in poor condition and needs significant upgrades. The roadway is dilapidated and the street design is unsafe.

Our district also have significant congestion issues on Fulton Street, Myrtle Avenue, Bedford Avenue, and Atlantic Avenue. Additionally there are deep issues at the Classon Avenue on-ramp to the BQE and Tompkins Avenue during the afternoon rush.

Needs for Transit Services

As the City diversifies transit options, it's critical the community-level engagement and participation are involved at every level. Our streets landscape is changing but those changes should include input, feedback, and recommendations from the widest swath of users. Data supporting changes, at the community board level, should be prioritized and shared with constituents.

PARKS, CULTURAL AND OTHER COMMUNITY FACILITIES

Brooklyn Community Board 3

Most Important Issue Related to Parks, Cultural and Other Community Facilities

Quality of parks and park facilities

As a community we continue to advocate for the better parks and playgrounds. Parks have always assisted our community in child development, community engagement through family events, physical activities, and a resource for our educators and their students. There are several assets in our district that require capital funding and would make significant impact on the quality of the parks. Spaces are being used for a variety of activities as more and more people are using the outdoors as extension of their homes. There are neighborhood green spaces which contend with the challenge of their surroundings, such as NYCHA playgrounds. These spaces present unique opportunities and challenges; although the community would benefit from programming such as 'Parks without Borders' it leaves residents vulnerable even if that program encourages social engagement. Our parks also need to be better equipped to deal with the changing climate. The recent extreme weather magnified the need in Bedford-Stuyvesant for more green infrastructure to go along with improved catch basin and drainage systems, There are still has several asphalt covered play yards and street extensions where greenery can be integrated.

Needs for Cultural Services

Cultural assets within the community need to be supported and maintained. Institutions like the Magnolia Tree Earth Center should be part of the city's cultural institutions group so that it could have access to sustainable funding streams.

Bedford-Stuyvesant is a cultural center and culture is a driver for the local economy. A neighborhood cultural plan would help identify gaps in resources, areas of saturation, and ways to leverage cultural capital for greater good.
